FRANCE WILL HOLD RUHR UNTIL PAID

PREMIER'S ULTIMATUM THREATENS ENTENT LIFE

VOICE DETERMINATION TO HOLD TERRITORY

The French Are Determined to Force the Occupation Through to a Successful Conclusion.—Pope's Proposal Rejected.

Paris.—Premier Poincare, in a brilliant and widely applauded speech in the senate gave the long-hoped-for pronunciamento on the French attitude in the Ruhr, clarifying the issue, which at present threatens the very existence of the Anglo-Frnch entante and future peace of Europe.

High lights of his address were:

1. France will neither modify her occupation of the Ruhr nor evacuate the terrain except in ratio to payments from Germany.

2. The French government is ready to resume negotiations with England.

3. The viewpoint of France and Belgium is that they desire to do their utmost to meet England's demand, but are not prepared to menace vital French interests.

4. France cannot accept the Pope's anti-occupation suggestions. Poincare intimated these suggestions were based on a misunderstanding of the situation.

5. Germany was charged with "wilful bankruptcy and waste of resources."

6. It was pointed out that if France has political or militaristic motives she could have occupied the entire Mainz valley.

7. Annexation plans were flatly denied. The keynote of the speech was Poincare's statement, "We do not intend to renounce our victory."

Supporting his policy to the utmost the senate unanimously voted credits for the maintenance of the occupation of the Ruhr of about 307,000,000 francs or $18,000,000.

Since 1914, when the world swept forward to the defense of France, the nation has hardly been in as critical a political situation. Handicapped, crippled by the war, drained of men and resources, France looked to reparations to restore her to normalcy.

In the eyes of Frenchmen the reparations to date delivered are negligible. Instead, they see Germany's industrial machine intact; they see Germany's financial machine plunging into a chaos that renders future reparations improbable. They believe that chaos is self-imposed by Germany.

The French are determined to force the occupation through to a successful conclusion. Every effort is bent to seeing that the reparations which have elsewhere eluded them shall be exacted in and through the Ruhr. They believe Germany can pay, and that, with France holding the Ruhr, she will pay as the price of economic freedom.

"We wish once more to justify abroad for temporal and spiritual powers (the world powers and the vatican) the measures we have taken and will take again, if necessary, against a recalcitrant debtor," Poincare said.

Declaring that Berlin instigated all troubles in the Ruhr, he said:

"We proposed to Germany an operation (in the Ruhr occupation) essentially pacific. What we really proposed in the Ruhr was economic cooperation. It was by the order of Berlin that all our propositions were rejected.

"We do not intend to renounce our victory. We shall impose our will against Germany, who has renounced defeat."

During senate debate Chairman Beranger, of the senate finance committee, accused Pope Pius XI of spreading German propaganda, Beranger said "It is questionable of there is need for France to maintain an ambassador at the Vatican any longer."

Under the guise of commercial aviation Germany is constructing thousands of bombing planes for use in "the next war," it was charged by Capt. Rene Fonck, France's greatest living "ace," a member of the chamber of deputies and president of the Aviation League of France.

Drop Rabbi Slaying Case

San Francisco.—A murder charge against Gladwell Richardson, young sailor, who confessed to slaying Rabbi Alfred Lafee in a Fillmore street hotel, was dismissed by Superior Judge Michiel Roche, upon a motion of assistant district attorney, William Hagerty. Naval authorities expressing implicit confidence in Richardson, who was wanted as a deserter, permitted him to voluntarily surrender himself at the training station at Goat Island.

$1,000,000 SWINDLE LAID TO 6 STOCK "BROKERS"

Farmers and Banks of State Mulcted of Fortune By Get-RichQuick Men, Says Chairman of State Corporation Commission.

San Francisco.—Stock salesmen, of get-rich-quick tendencies, have swindled farmers and banks of the state out of more than a million dollars in recent operations and are responsible for the closing of one bank at Chino, San Bernardino county, according to a statement by Edward F. Dishman, deputy state commissioner of corporations

It was the Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Chino that was ordered closed by John F. Johnson, state superintendent of banks, and from this action came revelations of the most spectacular stock frauds in the state's recent history. Six suspects have been indicted and are now fugitives from the law.

These men would buy stock for a few dollars a share, then go to the farmer and offer $1,000 worth at $250 a share. If the victim pleaded lack of money they would take his note and guarantee to sell the stock within sixty days at a fifty per cent profit. Later they would return and hand the farmer back his note and $250 as profit. This was bait. Elated, the farmer would buy $10,000 to $20,000 worth of another stock, again giving a note.

This note was taken to small banks. If the bank demurred they would ask for certificates of deposite and promise not to cash the certificates until the note was paid. The swindlers would then jump to Los Angeles or the nearest big city and cash those certificates at some big bank.

When efforts to collect these were made and the small banks called on the customers for payment of their notes many farmers were thrown into bankruptcy, and, as in the case of the Chinco bank, many small institutions found themselves in great difficulty.

UNITED STATES-MEXICO PACT IN THIRTY DAYS SEEMS SURE

Phoenix, Ariz.—An "agreeable understanding" leading to the recognition of Mexico will come within thirty days, says former governor, Thomas E. Campbell, who has been in Mexico City for several weeks, using his friendship with United States and Mexican officials to bring about recognition. He had an interview with Commissioners Warren and Payne, and they were confident of a successful conclusion to the pour parlers. They said, however, they would remain in Mexico City "until Christmas if necessary."

Campbell dined with President Obregon and says Obregon was optimistic and greatly encouraged by the attitude of the American commissioners, their knowledge of Mexican problems and their splendid patience and sympathy.

NEW MEXICO EDITOR GETS PRISON TERM FOR LIBEL

Las Vegas, N. M.—Carl Magee, editor of the New Mexico State Tribune, was sentenced to from one year to eighteen months at hard labor in the state penitentiary for alleged libel of Judge Parker of the state supreme court.

Judge Leahy, in finding the editor guilty, characterized Magee's words as "cowardly, wickedly, wantonly, falsely and maliciously attempting to assassinate the character of Judge Parker." Magee's indictment followed his comment editorially on the failure of a bank which had been given state funds by a county clerk without obtaining bond.

E. R. Kennedy's genial presence is again going in and out of the real estate building on the corner of Campbell and Central Avenues. He has bought back this business from the last owners. S. N. Hedegard and his brother C. S. Hedegard, and John Lund, who was associated with them.

While wishing them every future success and that they will continue their interest in the business life of Campbell, the Commercial Association welcomes Mr. Kennedy and his able assistant Mrs. Besse Kennedy, back to the fold.

CHURCHES MAKE RECORD GROWTH

Federal Council Reports Increase of 1,220,428 Members in U. S. in Year.

Washington.—America apparently is growing more religious. Figures now made public by Dr. E. O. Watson, statistician of the Federal Council of Churches, show that the religious bodies in the United States made their greatest growth during last year. The increase is 1,220,428 members over the previous year.

The present membership of all religious bodies according to the latest available figures is 47,461,558. This increase is approximately 50 per cent greater than the average for the preceding five years. There was a gain of 9,591 congregations and 15,252 ministers. The total number of congregations is now 248,590. They are led by 214,583 ministers.

According to these figures, church representatives point out that each day in 1922 an average of 3,345 persons joined the various religious bodies; 42 ministers were ordained or licensed; and 26 congregations were organized.

The shortage in clergy is not as great as the fact that there are 29,007 more congregations than ministers would indicate. Many pastors, especially in rural districts, have charge of two or more congregations. Besides, a number of missions and rural churches are served by laymen. This activity on the part of laymen is one of the significant features of the year.

Roman Catholic Membership.

Owing to different methods adopted by the various bodies in computing their membership it is hard to make comparisons. The Roman Catholic church shows a membership of 18,104,804 persons. Its figures represent estimated church population and include all baptized persons. Evangelical Protestant churches show a membership of 27,454,080. They count communicants only.

The thirty bodies related to the Federal Council of Churches report a total membership of 20,722,142 persons. They have 149,436 congregations, served by 119,077 ministers. Their gain in membership over last year is 869,261. Their total constituency is now 59,021,718 persons.

The total religious constituency of the country is placed at 98,878,367 persons. Church officials define constituency to mean all baptized persons, all adherents, and all those who in the supreme test of life or death, turn to communion.

Church Bodies Compared.

When the figures of the various churces are placed on a comparable basis through methods agreed upon by church and government officials, the constituency of the great bodies is reported as follows:

Protestant	76,113,461
Roman Catholic	18,104,804
Jews	1,600,000
Latter Day Saints (Mormons)	604,082
Eastern Orthodox (Greek and Russian)	456,054

The Jewish figures are the same as used last year. They are computed on a different basis from the various Christian bodies because of their great variation in methods of counting membership. The Jewish authorities estimate the Jewish population of the United States at more than 3,300,000.

Though some of the larger bodies have not reported on their expenditures, the figures already in hand show that the churches raised $16,628,894 more than last year. The total reported to date is $505,052,978.

The great increase in membership is due largely to the gains of the Roman Catholic church, which shows an increase of 219,158; the Methodist Episcopal church, 122,975; the Southern Baptist Convention, 97,116, and the National Baptist Convention (negro), 74,750. The Roman Catholic figures indicate a decrease in the rate of gain as compared with the annual average for the preceding five years, which was 432,766.

Methodists Lead in Total.

The Methodist churches have the largest constituency in the country, their figures showing 23,253,854 persons. The Baptists form the second largest group and are pressing the Methodists closely with a constituency of 22,869,098 persons. The Roman Catholics are third with 18,104,804 persons. The Lutherans make up the fourth body with 7,048,854 constituency, and the Presbyterians are fifth with 6,726,698 constituency.

Probably the most remarkable gain of the year is that of the Eastern Orthodox churches, which show a 10 per cent increase, jumping from 411,054 to 456,054 members. This is apparently due to the fact that the Greek Orthodox church is more effectively organized and is reaching the Greek immigrants in America.

The Methodist Protestant Church turned a loss during the preceding five years into an increase of 8,000 members. While the Disciples of Christ and the Congregational churches both had a reduction in the number of congregations, they gained respectively 8,826 and 19,046 members.

The Episcopalians doubled their increase of the preceding year, making a gain of 36,818. The Unitarians show a gain of 4,624, which is not quite 4 per cent. This brings their total membership to 108,560.

The Christian Science Church reports 1,799 congregations and 3,598 readers, but gives no figures as to membership. The statistics of the Adventist bodies indicate a loss of 2,567 members, their present membership

Inhale Food, His Recipe for Never Getting Old

Philadelphia.—"To stay young and fresh, don't eat your food—inhale it."

This is the secret of perpetual flapperism, as imparted to members of the American Philosophical society by Dr. Paul Haupt, professor of Semitic languages in Johns-Hopkins university.

Dr. Haupt said that over-eating was the principal cause of the haggard appearance of many "modern goddesses" at the age of twenty-five years. As contributory causes he mentioned "too much synthetic gin drunk straight and too much tobacco smoke."

"A study of mythology shows," said Dr. Haupt, "that the gods and goddesses never ate and remained, in consequence, perpetually youthful. When a god or goddess wanted a meal he hovered over a burning sacrifice and inhaled the fumes from a roasting bullock. That satisfied him.

"Now, our modern goddesses are fading before our eyes because they can not tame their desire for food."

Pension for Bunion; Nothing for Lost Foot

London.—According to their treatment of a local ex-soldier, the Ministry of Pensions attaches more value to a bunion than a foot, says an Aberdeen dispatch to the London Daily News.

The ex-soldier was incapacitated during the war by an injury to his foot, and a bunion grew on the affected part. It was clearly a sequel to the man's war service, and he was granted a small pension.

But his condition became worse, and he had to enter the hospital, where his foot was amputated at the ankle. He has now been notified by the Ministry that his pension has been withdrawn because the disability has passed away.

Bunion, foot, and pension all gone.

Most of Blind German Vets Support Selves

Berlin.—Only 20 per cent of Germany's 2,547 completely blinded war veterans are without vocations, the federal minister of labor announces.

Sixty per cent have taken up other careers than they followed before being blinded; 12.5 per cent remained at their former employment, and 7.5 per cent are occupied a part of the time.

Statistics of the year 1900 show that only 21.5 per cent of the completely blinded at that time were in employment.

British Grenadiers!

Until they were a mile within the German lines a company of English Grenadier guards under Captain Pryce held out against the German advance on the Lys in April, 1918. The enemy brought up fields guns to point-blank range and flattened out the trenches. The survivors of the company stood back to back shooting both ways. At six in the evening 18 men were left. At Captain Pryce's order these 18 men charged with their bayonets at the Germans 80 yards away. There were no British survivors except a corporal, who owed his life to accidentally falling into a ditch. The story is told in "Sir Douglas Haig's Command," by one of his staff officers.

Menu for Gourmet.

A banquet in Siam is no light matter, as Mr. Hermann Norden, the author of "From Golden Gate to Golden Sun," found out. While in Bangkok he was present at one in which the menu was as follows: Chicken kidneys, mushrooms, shrimps, cheese, shark's ears, soup, fish, onions, macaroni, Chinese bird's-nest soup, duck, barley soup, a sweet fruit soup, made of the milk of a coconut. It was served in the order given, and no wonder that "the dinner committee had sat up until all hours combining this menu for gourmets."

The Nimble Nickel

Said the Little Nimble Nickel,
I can go in any shop
And bring you out a thingumbob,
Or silly lollipop,
But if you ask my answer, you
May have it, free and frank,
That I'd rather teeter-totter
On the balance-in-the-Bank."

So the Little Nimble Nickel
Went to went working with a will,
And he chased himself in circles,
And he landed in the till,
For he said, "I'm but a nickel
Of a very humble rank,
But I'm going to found a family
Of Dollars-in-the-Bank."

He settled down in earnest and
'Twas but a little time
Till he formed a matrimonial
Connection with a Dime.
They proved a very happy pair,
And fond of trade and barter,
And soon they had a little son,
Whose cognomen was Quarter.

In time the son went courting, and
He found a better Half
And their daughter was a Dollar,
And that made the Nickel laugh,
For the Little Nimble Nickel
Thought it quite a pretty prank
That he should be the grand-dad of
The Dollar-in-the-Bank.

The Dollars kept increasing till
They grew to quite a crowd,
And when they met the landlord,
They were feeling pretty proud,
But the Landlord looked down at them,
As if each were but a cent,
And one-half the Dollar family
Went to pay his rising rent.

That seemed a great catastrophe.
It was, beyond a doubt,
But the Nimble Nickel tried again,
And bought the landlord out,
And now the Nimble Nickel, his
Descendents and his heirs
Are living in the Bank again
And running it on shares!

First Newspaperman Priest

Denver.—For the first time in the history of the Catholic church a man actively engaged in editing a newspaper has been made a priest, when the Rt. Rev. J. Henry Tihen, bishop of Denver, raised the Rev. Matthew J. W. Smith to the priesthood. The Rev. Mr. Smith is editor of the Denver "Catholic Register."

Doyle Raps San Francisco

San Francisco.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in his final lecture at Dreamland Rink, told his audience that he would never visit San Francisco again. He expressed himself as deeply shocked at the attitude taken toward him and his message by the "bigoted and reactionary" press of San Francisco.

THOSE WHO WON'T WORK

Generally speaking, there is now a job in this country for every man who wants one. This holds true in almost every community. The mayor in one enterprising city of 50,000 people is determined that the industrious members of the community shall profit accordingly, without having to support any idlers. He is having a list made of all the able-bodied loafers in town and holding it for future reference. The loafers are duly warned that if they apply for help next winter, as many of them have done in previous winters, there will be "nothing doing."

This is a commendable policy, carried out with proper discrimination. It is a historic American principle, handed down from colonial days, that "he who will not work shall not eat." There is less need of that drastic rule now than there was in the days of pioneer hardship or during the recent war, yet it is as just as it ever was, and as wholesome for those to whom it is applied.

Let professional loafers be discouraged, by every means possible, in time of plenty as in times of stress. Then, when genuine need does come, it will be less severe.

Be hospitable, but don't let the flies eat with you.
